

How We Got To Here?

JAMES ALAN CONSTRUCTION LTD.

ABOUT JAMES ALAN CONSTRUCTION LTD

James Alan Construction started in 2009, based in Forfar, Angus, Scotland. After over 15 years of serving many clients for other building contractors, Alan felt the need to provide a company set on communicating well with the client to achieve a successful project.

Alan wanted to start a company that was not afraid to take on the unusual or mundane. One that provided a first-class service to the client who would have no issue recommending James Alan Construction to their friends.

To achieve this, he knew it would take a team of like-minded tradesmen and professionals to work together to ensure the service can be delivered... and that was how James Alan Construction was born.

Over the years, our company has sourced and refined our network of tradesmen, sub-contractors and suppliers who believe in the communication protocol we use and are committed to providing a quality project and end product for our clients. We have formed relationships across the East of Scotland sourcing and negotiating competitive rates for materials and new building methods which means we are at the forefront of the building industry in our area. This is also reflected in our finishing and the competitiveness of our pricing.

We know the importance of communication, honesty, teamwork and integrity within our onsite team and client relationship. And with Alan's years of experience and expertise, you will be working with a professional team that only delivers the highest quality build.

Who is Alan Macaulay?

JAMES ALAN CONSTRUCTION LTD.

Hi, I'm Alan Macaulay, Director of James Alan Construction Ltd. I'm married to my beautiful wife Tracey. We have 3 young children who are all still in school - Hannah 13, Charlie, 10 and Alfie 8.

I'm a black belt at Judo and a white belt at Crossfit!!

I've been involved with Judo since I was 9 years old and have been National Champion as a Junior, Under 21, and more recently British Nr1 as a Master Judo Competitor. Now my attention has turned towards Crossfit with the plan on being up with the top in the country for my age group.

Competing in sport draws a lot of parallels to running a business. You need to be dedicated, respectful of the process, and in it for the long haul to achieve great things.

Since starting my business, this work ethic and focus on customer relations has enhanced our profile and resulted in completing our projects to our clients' expectations time and time again.
